Regarding the Northwest Power allocation for the future in our area, Washington State.

I believe we should be doing all we can to retain industry in our state and keep good paying jobs here now and in the future. What concerns me a lot is the possibility of losing the aluminum industry to some foreign country.

National defense and all that. The more this country has to depend on an overseas source for anything the more vulnerable we are in case of some future conflict, war.

We seem to be very good at moving industry overseas to save money but I believe we will regret that one day.

Don't run the aluminum plants out of Wash. State.
Do all you can to help them stay here.

Sincerely

Herbert Adler
