I continue to believe that alternative sources of power should be developed (wind, solar and thermal) to supply our needs. These are the energies of the future. These sources should be developed fully as soon as possible, and the dams along the lower Snake River should be removed as soon as possible.

Returning the river to a more natural state will improve the possibility of better salmon and steelhead runs - we can't afford NOT to provide better conditions for them. Tourist and fishing businesses will follow so that business losses will be replaced by gains in other areas.

Improving fish habitat, including water conditions, should be at the center of all decisions you make that involve our rivers.

Sincerely,
Rose Fanger
